District Update

Neighbourhood Planning Event – National Changes and Local Support – save the date 28 Jan

South Oxfordshire District Council and Vale of White Horse District Council are holding an afternoon event on Wednesday 28 January 2026 (2:00pm–5:00pm) in Didcot (venue to be confirmed). The event is primarily targeted at town and parish councillors and clerks and will explore how neighbourhood planning fits within a changing national planning context and why it continues to matter. Further details and registration information will follow.

The event will focus on:

- how recent and proposed national planning changes affect neighbourhood plans,
- the continued value of neighbourhood plans in decision-making, and
- the support and guidance available to parish and town councils preparing or reviewing neighbourhood plans.

Joint Local Plan (JLP) Examination

On 3 December 2025, we confirmed to the Inspectors that we want to resume the local plan hearings and are awaiting their response. The Government intends to remove the Duty to Cooperate early in the new year. For plans like the JLP already at examination, this means the legal “pass/fail” test will go, but we’ll still need to show effective cooperation as part of the soundness test. This can be addressed during examination if needed. See the latest information here Joint Local Plan 2041 Examination - South Oxfordshire District Council and Vale of White Horse District Council

Oxford Growth Commission Interim report

Neale Coleman’s Interim Report was published on 15 December. It identifies barriers to growth and sets out 47 recommendations to improve infrastructure and speed up development. The Commission will continue its work through 2026, with a final report expected later, within a year.

Planning Reforms

Government has released a raft of new guidance, including details on the forthcoming 30-month process for preparing new-style local plans.

National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF)

A draft revised NPPF was published on 16 December 2025 for consultation until 10 March 2026. It aims to create a more rules-based system and accelerate delivery of 1.5 million homes this Parliament.

What this means for South and Vale

Although Government policy and the local plan system are changing, there is no direct effect on the Joint Local Plan. For the JLP, we do not need to immediately meet new national policies, adopt the new housing numbers, or switch to the new plan-making system. Those changes will apply to a subsequent local plan. If you have any questions about the planning policy updates or JLP please let us know.
